What Is This Campaign?

Following is copy of minutes of the Belhaven State Convention of Disciples of Christ, of November 8, 1922: "The Board of Trustees through their President, George Hackney, recommended to the Convention that it appoint a commission to act in conjunction with the Board of Trustees to investigate the immediate needs of the College for buildings and endowment and that it give the Trustees power to act on the findings of the Commission. After several stirring addresses in favor of this recommendation, the Convention voted hearty approval."

This Commission reported at the Raleigh State Convention of Disciples of Christ, November 6, 1923, and its report, which follows, was unanimously adopted:

"Your committee, after full investigation of the educational situation as related to our brotherhood of the State, finds that in order to maintain Atlantic Christian College as a Standard Senior College with sufficient cash endowment and maintenance and improvement, we therefore recommend the following:

Recommended—

(1) That we secure an additional fund of $300,000 of ultimate endowment for Atlantic Christian College.

(2) That $19,000 per year maintenance income, including gifts of churches, be provided.

(3) That this campaign be area-wide.

(4) That pledges be secured from both individuals and churches.

(5) That the pledge be a five-year maintenance pledge, with annual payments, and when possible that these payments be interest payments on a principal sum, the full principal to be paid at the end of five years, or if possible a pledge for endowment on which an annual payment is to be made, and that gifts through annuities or wills will count on the campaign.

(6) That a Steering Committee of five (three making a quorum) from the Board of Trustees be appointed to direct the campaign, and be authorized to secure the necessary field force, national or otherwise, and that the campaign begin not later than January 1, 1924, and that a general Advisory Committee be appointed by the Steering Committee, to be subdivided into District Advisory Committees.

(7) That the funds for improvement and betterment be secured outside this projected campaign.

(8) That the necessary expenses be in addition to the sum mentioned in the goal."

How Atlantic Christian College Serves

The only A Grade college in North Carolina east of Raleigh. Serves forty counties.

Cultural training of a Standard Senior College.

Outstanding factor in regional development of Disciples of Christ.

Furnishes forty-four per cent. of all preaching Disciples of Christ have in the State.

Only 166 Churches of Christ in the State have preaching, and Atlantic Christian College men preach for 73 of them as follows:

BY COUNTIES

Beaufort	7	Hyde	2	Pamlico	4
Carteret	1	Johnston	2	Pasquotank	1

CHRONOLOGY

THOMAS JORDAN LATHAM

October 31, 1797, born at Pantego, N. C.

1812-1820, (approximate), trained in one of Carolina's best schools. It was in Robeson County. Judge Manly was a schoolmate. There Latham learned well the dead languages. Furthermore, thank Heaven, he developed a shining gift for correct spelling and legible handwriting in the approved English of his day!!

1820-1830, (approximate), taught school with "marked success."

February 4, 1821, married Nancy Cordon; issue, twelve children.

1830, (approximate), confessed Christ at Pantego and was baptized by Elder Henry Smith.

October 2, 1830 helped organize Concord Free Will Baptist Church, with 36 members. It later became Pantego Christian Church. Here Latham was church clerk for a long period.

April, 1834, entertained Thomas Campbell, father of Alexander Campbell, in his Pantego home.

January 13, 1839, his first wife having died, he married Ann E. Everett, of Martin Co., N.C.; issue, five children.

1839-1855, served as pastor, ("presiding Elder"), at Pantego.

1840-1850 (approximate), served as postmaster at Pantego, and Master of Equity for Hyde County, while Hyde yet included Pantego.

Nov. 11-14, 1841, in his keynote message ("circular letter"), at the annual meeting of Bethel Conference, he cleared the way for a merger, (May 2, 1845), of that Conference with the local Union Meeting of Disciples of Christ. Thus he began the "Minutes" of these annual state meetings in 1841. The regular annual state meeting of October 9-12, 1845, after formal Union with Disciples, thus counts as No. 1. These state Conventions having been held annually without a break since 1845, it follows that 1944 marks the one hundredth such convention.

1853, removed to Washington, N. C., serving there as postmaster.

1855, candidate for U. S. Congress.

April 20, 1862, died, and was buried at eastern edge of Pantego village, a few steps south of the present east-west Federal Highway. He was survived by only four of his seventeen children, one of whom, Josephus, (1828-1889), was an evangelist of North Carolina Disciples for forty years.

FOREWORD

North Carolina Disciples of Christ have two Nineteenth Century origins, contemporaneous and distinct. The locale for both was eastern North Carolina on the coastal plains about midway between the borders of the "Palmetto" and the "Old Dominion" states.

The one arose within the Regular Baptists, in the Neuse and Kehukee Associations, under John Patrick Dunn, General William Clark, and a few associates. It emerged as "The Union Meeting of Disciples of Christ." They had occasional fellowship meetings from 1831 onward, but so far as known, they had no scribe, or archivist. They probably had little mind for history, as they have left us but mere fragments on the record. About all that we know about them, prior to their union with the Bethel Conference in 1845, we have to get from outside sources.

The other evolved within the Bethel Free Will Baptist Conference, led by Thomas Jordan Latham and others. It was first named "The Bethel Conference" in 1841. It was from an old order and they had a much larger group than the Disciples' Union Meeting, although the Disciples numbered some wealthy planters in their fellowship, and had several churches in the counties of Lenoir, Pitt, Greene, and Beaufort. Fortunately Bethel Conference had in Latham a gifted soul who did the documentary chore for posterity. He left hundreds of pages of clear and precise script in the old ledger called in their annual state meetings, the "bound book." He also, year by year, published the many thousands of small printed pamphlets, called "Minutes", which have to this generation all but disappeared. For the period, 1841 to 1852, inclusive, we have by a quarter-century's persistent effort, unearthed from the wreckage of time, a few museum pieces of these prints, all of which literally can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Like the leaves of the forest they perished with their season. It is but another instance of the incredible waste of an adolescent America.

Thanks to the archival instinct of Latham, we are able to transcribe on the following pages his meticulous script for this primitive period. Thanks also to John James Harper and Jesse Cobb Caldwell, of later generations, for keeping these archives in the old iron safe at Atlantic Christian College.

For the first time this large body of source material is here presented, totally and connectedly, in print. Readers may see clearly and simply this growing communion in the drama of its beginnings. We dare not claim that this presentation is wholly without error. We are but human. I submit, however, that typists, and printers, and editor, have done what they could to make it dependable and useful.

It is a worthy heritage. And it is ours to use worthily.

CHARLES CROSSFIELD WARE.

CIRCULAR LETTER

DEAR BRETHREN:

The profession of Christianity may be divided into two classes or parties. The one party contends that the Christian Religion came pure from the Holy Apostles and Evangelists—and that it is contained in the New Testament. The other party, though professing a belief in the divinity of the scriptures, contend, nevertheless, that they are not a sufficient rule of Faith and Discipline—and that Formulas of Discipline, composed by uninspired men, are indispensibly necessary, as bonds of Christian union. Among the former party I think the brethren, commonly called Free Will Baptists, may generally be classed. Indeed the 7th article of their creed, as published, says: "We believe the whole Scriptures are true, and that they are the only rules of Faith and Practice."

The object of this address is to enforce this article by showing its accordance with the practice of the primitive Christians; and that all Christians can unite on the Scriptures and on no other bond of union.

That it is according to the practice of primitive Christians. See Acts 2c, 42v. "And they continued steadfastly in the Apostles' doctrine," etc. And the Apostle Paul, addressing the Galatian Church, continues them thus: "But though we, or an angel from Heaven, preach any other Gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other gospel unto you, then that you have received, let him be accursed." Gal. 1st ch. 8 and 9 verses. Tertullian, in his apology for the Christians, written about the end of the second Century, says: "We are a body with-in one bond of religion, discipline and hopes. We meet in our assemblies for prayer. We are compelled to have recourse to the divine oracles for caution and recollection on all occasions. We nourish our faith by the Word of God," etc. See Justin Martyr's Apology. In short it is admitted on all hands, so far as I am informed, that the churches were independent of each other, and had no other authoritative Creed or discipline than the Scriptures, until the Emperor Constantine commanded the Ecumenical, or general council, which was held at Nice, A. D. 325. Since that time creeds and confessions of faith, drawn up by uninspired men have mostly influenced the professed Christian world. And what have been the consequences? The Roman Catholic Church alone boasts of having slain fifty million of those whom she calls heretics—to say nothing of the unchristian contentions, murders, and wars of the other sects and denominations of Christiandom.—Omitting also to notice particularly the many absurd and contradictory dogmas which have been, and are, even now, countenanced by those who profess to be Christians.

All Christians can unite on the Scriptures as the rule of Faith and practice, and on them alone.

In the 17th chapter of John's Gospel we are informed that our Savior prayed: "That they (the Apostles) might be one. As we (the Father and Son) are one." And again, "neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one; as thou Father, are in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." Hence it appears that the uniting of believers on the word of the apostles and Evangelists, as the basis of their union, must precede the faith and of consequence, the conversion of the world. And, assuredly, nothing is better calculated to blind the understanding and harden the heart of the unbeliever, than the present divided state of Christian professors.

Again, we have seen, that for nearly three centuries Christian professors "remained steadfastly in the Apostles doctrine"; that they were "a body united in one bond of religion, discipline and hope": "having recourse to the divine oracles for caution and recollection on all occasions," etc. And yet we know that during that period Christianity flourished in spite of all the opposition and persecution of Jews and heathen. Why would it not flourish again if its professors were again to return to the Apostles' doctrine, as their rule of faith and discipline, laying aside all uninspired creeds, etc. and appealing in all cases to the Scriptures, and to them alone?

Let us select one or two examples to illustrate our views.

Baptism is one great source of the unholy contentions which pervade Christianity. Some professors contend that baptism means either sprinkling, pouring, or immersion. Others contend that it means immersion only. Why cannot all unite on the practice of immersion, as all admit its correctness; and dispense with sprinkling and pouring, which some cannot conscientiously practice.

Another source of contention is Calvinistic predestination. What is to be done with him who supposes Calvinism to be true? If his walk is orderly and pious, let him not be excommunicated for opinion's sake. But if he endeavors to enforce his opinions as a bond of union or church membership, he then becomes a schismatic, and should be excluded. Two persons may be of the one Faith, practice the one Baptism, and adore the one Lord, etc., and yet differ in opinions on many subjects not clearly, if at all, revealed in the scriptures. Is it necessary that all should think precisely alike? Certainly not. It is probable no two persons in Christendom think exactly alike on all points respecting the Christian Religion; and of course no church could exist if this were required.

That all can unite on the Scriptures we have endeavored to prove, so far as the limits of a circular will permit. That they cannot unite on any one sectarian creed, needs no other proof than the present divided state of Christian professors.

Let us then, my beloved brethren, adhere to the divine oracles, and endeavor to regulate our conduct both as members of the church of Christ, and as members of society, according to their instructions. Let us not only at home around our family altars, but also on every Lord's Day in our churches, continue steadfastly in the Apostles' Doctrine, etc. Above all things let us abound in Love, without which Christian profession is vain.

Yours in Gospel bonds,
THOMAS J. LATHAM.

CIRCULAR

DEAR BRETHREN:

In obedience to an order of your last annual conference, it becomes my duty to write a Circular Letter to be read in your present Conference; and if approved, annexed to the Minutes of the same. While I reflect on my inability to discharge the duty, you have laid upon me, and my responsibility to my Heavenly Master for the manner in which I may discharge it, I feel that I need much assistance from Him who came into the world to teach us how we should live in this world, in order that we may live with Him in Heaven.

I know of no subject which should be more strictly enforced on your minds than Christian Union and fellowship. For I have observed, with profound regret, the great efforts that have been, and are still making by some, who profess to be followers of the meek and lowly Jesus, to sew the seeds of discord and disunion amongst the brethren. When we reflect upon the great solicitude which our divine Master entertained, that his followers might be united in one body, when he offered up his last intercession prayer to His Heavenly Father, before he was crucified, pleading for his disciples, he says "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they may all be one, as their Father is in me, and I in Him, that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." And now dear brethren, in order to effect this great and glorious purpose, for which our divine Master so earnestly prayed to His Heavenly Father, let us search the scriptures diligently and prayerfully, and endeavor by all possible means to conform, as much as in us lies, to their Divine precepts; and then all jars and discords will be done away from amongst us, and brotherly love, that heavenly principle, will flow from breast to breast, and we all be united in Christian love and fellowship. I am well aware, my brethren, that there are many professors of religion, who do not believe, that the New Testament contains all that is actually necessary for that church government; and that consequently rules of discipline, drawn up by some leading member, or members of the church, are especially necessary as bonds of Christian Union. Whatever ideas I may have formerly entertained on this subject, I am now fully of the opinion, after a careful perusal of the Holy Scriptures, that all rules of discipline, and formalities of doctrine, written by uninspired men, are altogether useless and unprofitable; and that they are one great cause of the divisions and contentions which pervade the Christian world at the present day. And now my beloved brethren, I would earnestly intreat you to search the Scriptures diligently and prayerfully—and especially the Epistles—and you will finally, I have not much doubt, come to the conclusion to take the New Testament for your only Rule of Faith and practice. Let us therefore, my brethren, read for ourselves, and judge for ourselves, and not take the opinions of any man, unless they are in accordance with the word of God. The Scriptures are intended to enlighten and instruct the mind, and the more familiar we become with them, the better we shall be prepared to conform to their divine principles. "Be ye therefore, steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord; in as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." We are also commanded to pray for one another, and to help each other on our journey through this unfriendly world; but I greatly fear this is not the case with us all. For it is greatly to be feared that some are pursuing the opposite course. "Let us love one another with a pure heart feverently." "We should bear each others burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." "For by this shall all men know ye are my disciples (said Christ), if ye have love one for another." Then let us show ourselves to be the true disciples of our Lord Jesus Christ, by following in the path he has marked out for us. Circumstances which are not under my control, compel me to draw to a close. In conclusion permit me to say that no light or frivolous circumstances should cause a division among us; for we have been taught that union is strong. Then let us nourish it in our own breasts; let us encourage it in the church with meekness and Christian forbearance.

"Now I beseech you brethren by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that you be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." And now my dear brethren, if we are never permitted to meet again in this mournful vale, O may we meet in that house, not made with hands, eternal in the heavens, where we may enjoy each others presence, and the presence of our God forever—which God grant to be all our happy lot for Christ's sake, Amen.

REUBEN BARROW.

On motion agreed that the Treasurer deposit with Elder Thos. J. Latham a sum sufficient to pay for printing the said minutes.

The following preamble and resolutions, offered by Elder Thos. J. Latham were unanimously adopted by the Conference.

Whereas: Division among Christians is a promiscuous evil—antichristian, as it destroys the visible unity of the body of Christ, as if he were divided against himself, excluding and excommunicating a part of himself—Antiscriptural, as being strictly prohibited by his Sovereign Authority; a direct violation of His express command—anti-natural, as it excites Christians to continue to hate and oppose one another, who are bound by the highest and most endearing obligations to love each other as brethren, “even as Christ loved” them. And whereas this Conference is desirous of removing every difficulty from the minds of such members of the church of Christ as are wishful to unite on the “faith once delivered to the saints.” Therefore:

Resolved, that this Conference consider each church of Christ, composed of its Elders, Deacons, and other members, as the highest ecclesiastical tribunal recognized in the New Testament, and therefore disclaims any ecclesiastical or controlling power over the churches of Christ as are willing to unite with us, on the Holy Scriptures, as the Rule of Faith and Discipline, reserving to themselves, respectively, the right to interpret the same, for their own regulations, and that they be affectionately invited to represent themselves by Delegates in this Conference.

On motion, agreed, that a vote of thanks be tendered to the inhabitants of this vicinity for their kindness and hospitality.

On motion, agreed that Conference adjourn to the time and place above stated. Prayer, etc. by Elder Clifton.

In consequence of indisposition Elder John H. Dixon failed to prepare a Circular Letter to be attached to these minutes. Within a day or two after the rise of the Bethel Conference he closed his mortal career, after a severe and protracted illness of many weeks. By the death of this amiable and pious preacher of the Gospel, our Conference has been deprived of one of its brightest ornaments; society, of one of its worthiest citizens; the churches over which he presided, of an eloquent and zealous Bishop; his widow and children, of an affectionate and tender husband and parent. Having lived the life of the Christian, he died the death of the righteous—Our loss is his gain. Requiescat in pace. Amen.

CIRCULAR LETTER

"Even so hath God ordained, that they who preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel," I Cor. 9 Chap. 14 verse.

Beloved Brethren in Christ:

At your last Annual Conference, held at Piney Grove, Sampson County, N. C., Oct. 1845, it was agreed that the humble individual who now addresses you, "be requested to prepare a Circular to be read at our next Annual Conference, and if approved, to be annexed to the Minutes of the same."

Amidst the various subjects to which the attention of the churches composing this Annual meeting, have heretofore been, and may yet be called, I have been unable to think of none more important to our well being and prosperity as a body of Christians, than that which stands at the head of this Circular—I mean the support of the Gospel.

Permit me here to remark, that I am not unapprised of the extreme sensibility felt by some religious people whenever this subject is touched; while others equally conscientious, appear to be anxious to investigate it and learn their duty in relation thereto. That an honest difference of opinion on this subject has heretofore existed, and may still exist, among truly religious people, the writer does not doubt; and he would therefore desire to approach it with caution, having, as he believes, a due regard to the feelings and opinions of all. He is the more encouraged to call your attention to this most interesting topic, from the consideration that he is addressing those who profess to believe in the use of the divinely appointed means for the enjoyment of that salvation, purchased for the perishing guilty by the blood of Christ. It remains, therefore, for us to make our practice consistant with our theory, by using the means graciously provided for the accomplishment of that most desirable end.

First, then, the question fairly presents itself before us and claims our sincere attention; what is the divinely appointed means for the conversion of the world to Christianity? The only scriptural answer which can be given is, that "the Gospel of Christ is the power of God unto Salvation, to everyone that believeth, to the Jew first; and also to the Greek," Rom. 1 c. 16 v. Hence the command of the Savior to "go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature," because it is adapted to the needs and want of all. But, in order that they may enjoy it, it becomes necessary that it should be preached, that they might hear it, believe it, and reduce it to practice; and thus it might be available to their relief from the bondage of sin. For all theories stand in the same relation to practice that the shadow does to the substance; in them we have the representation of things, but not the things themselves. In the Gospel preached, we have the theory of salvation; in it believed and obeyed we have the reality or enjoyment. This position is fully verified in the conversion of both Jew and Gentile. See Acts 2 and 10 chap. where Peter preached the Gospel; the people heard it, believed it, obeyed it, or reduced it to practice, and thereby the most blissful effects of it—Their liberation from sin, and the good hope, through grace, of a blessed immortality. This Gospel presents to all the blood of Christ as the purchasing or procuring cause of man's salvation—of remission of sin: For where there is no remission of sins there is no salvation; and where there is no shedding of blood there is no remission of sins. Heb. 9 chap. 2 verse. But we have been speaking now particularly of the means of enjoyment, not of the purchase or procurement.

Secondly—We will consider the human agency necessarily employed in proclaiming the Gospel, in order to its being heard, believed, obeyed, and enjoyed. That our Lord proclaimed it originally through the agency of man, can not be doubted by those who believe the New Testament to be the truth. Because we are expressly informed therein, that our Savior, after His resurrection, commanded His apostles to “go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature,” etc.

That a continuation of the ministry of the Word, through the agency of man is necessary NOW for the salvation of man, I apprehend no one will deny who believes that God works by means to effect the salvation of our race. This view is clearly set forth, and forcibly argued by the Apostle Paul in his Epistle to the Romans 10 c 14-17 v, “How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe on him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?” So, then, “faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.” That the Savior of sinners makes use of men as agents to proclaim the glad tidings to the perishing guilty, we believe will be readily admitted by all; and therefore we deem it a work of superogation to produce further proof in support of it.

But, in order to preach the Gospel to others, with success, it is a fact not to be denied, that the preacher ought first to understand it correctly himself; and to understand the Gospel correctly himself he must do as Paul directed Timothy—"Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of truth." Without a close application to the study of the good Book which contains the Christian Religion, no man, however learned in other respects, will be prepared rightly to divide the word of truth; or proclaim understandingly to his fellow men, the glad tidings of salvation. It is an error fraught with much mischief, to suppose that the preacher, is now inspired, or taught by the Holy Spirit, WITHOUT THE WORD OF TRUTH, as in the early days of Christianity. THEN, indeed, the Holy Spirit brought all things to his remembrance, and what he should speak, without the written word of truth; but now the Holy Spirit gives this most gracious information by the word of truth. In other words, the Holy Spirit THEN taught the Apostle by immediate inspiration; HE NOW teaches the preacher the same truth by the Scriptures. So teaches the Apostle 2 Tim. 3 c. 17 v, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." So then the preacher of the present day is, or ought to be, taught by inspiration of God, as well as the Apostles of Christ were. The latter, the Apostles, DIRECTLY; the former, INDIRECTLY; the apostles by the Holy Spirit sent down from Heaven on the day of Pentecost—the Spirit of inspiration. It therefore becomes necessary for the proclaimer of the Gospel in our day to give attention to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine, to meditate on these things, and give himself wholly to them, that his profiting may be apparent to all, I Tim. 4c, 15v. Pursuing this course we have every reason to suppose that God will bless the means of his own appointment (when used with pure motives) to the attainment of a very desirable end—a correct knowledge of the Gospel plan of man's salvation.

The duty of supporting the Gospel ministry is apparent, both from reason and the Scriptures. If it is the duty of the Minister of the Gospel to give himself wholly to the work, it is evident that he cannot derive his support from his own efforts in pecuniary matters. That he must have food and raiment for himself and his family, if he has one, is equally clear. That the preacher of the Gospel has been doomed by his Master to a mere pittance for life, while the education of his children, and the necessary provision for his family are neglected, no rational man can believe. Who then is bound to support the minister of the Gospel, and enable him to do justice to his family? Reason answers—the government that employs him as its minister—the Church of Christ.

The Scriptures answer—"The laborer is worthy of his hire." "Who goeth at a warfare at his own charges?" "Who planteth a vine-yard and eateth not of the fruit thereof?" Or "who feedeth a flock and eateth not of the milk of the flock?" "If we (the ministers of the Gospel) have sown unto you spiritual things" (the good seed of the Gospel) "is it a great thing if we shall reap of your carnal things?" The Apostle proves, illustrates, and enforces this duty by referring to the law of Moses: "Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn." Do ye not know that they who minister about holy things, live of the things of the Temple?" "And they which wait at the altar, are not they partakers with the altar? Even so hath God ORDAINED that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel." From the whole of the Apostles' teaching in this chapter as well as in other places, it appears to the writer that the duty of CHRISTIANS, in relation to the support of the Gospel ministry is placed beyond the possibility of a doubt—the case is made so plain, that is not NOW debateable.

In conclusion the writer would remark, that the way in which as Christians we are to discharge this most important duty, seems not to be particularly marked out in the Scriptures, and therefore necessarily calls for the exercise of wisdom, prudence, and sound discretion, in selecting the plan of operation most consistent with the means at our disposal, and the circumstances with which we are surrounded. With all due deference to the opinions and views of all concerned, we would suggest the practicability and propriety of a mutual co-operation of all the churches composing our annual conference, for the purpose of supporting evangelists to travel and proclaim the glad tidings of salvation to the people so far, at least, as our means will enable us to do so. And while I utterly repudiate the idea of an annual (or any other) meeting for the purpose of drawing up creeds for the faith, or for legislating for the government of the Churches composing it, I can see no impropriety in conferring together about the best way of employing our means in the support and spread of the Gospel. The former in the humble judgment of the undersigned, comes not within the jurisdiction of any conference or association; the latter most assuredly does.

The united efforts of all the churches would, with divine blessings, effect much, compared with the little that can be done by individual enterprise. Be this as it may, it certainly is the duty of all, so far as God has blessed them with the means, to contribute their mite in some way, to the support and spread of the Gospel. For if it is the duty of any one, the same law or rule of Scripture which binds one, will bind all according to their several abilities.

The exigency of the times calls aloud upon every lover of the TRUTH to step forward and do his duty. We claim, my beloved Brethren, to be standing upon original ground—to be guided in our religious course by the BIBLE. If so, we cannot fail to see and feel the importance of doing our duty.

We have nearly two thousand members belonging to the churches composing the Bethel Conference, and Union Meeting of the Disciples of Christ. Suppose each member were to contribute fifty cents annually for the support of the Gospel. The sum thus raised would be sufficient to keep at least three Evangelists in the field; and in a brief period, under the blessing of God, the number of our members might be doubled, perhaps quadrupled. But suppose three fourths of the members could not conveniently pay anything. There are at least five hundred members who could, and probably would, pay from one to ten dollars, each, annually, for the support of the Gospel, without at all feeling the burden. This kind of liberality would bring to our aid talented proclaimers of the Gospel, who, by divine assistance, might accomplish much in the cause of the redeemer. Many pious young men, with the requisite gifts and qualifications for preaching and teaching, are now confined to some honest avocation, for the support of themselves and families. They are not able to devote themselves to the ministry of the word, without pecuniary aid. Most of our preaching brethren are past, are on, or near the meridian of life, and cannot be expected, in the common course of human events to continue much longer in the Gospel field.

Beloved Brethren, what shall be done in this matter? Shall the cause which we love so much, languish and pine away among us for want of our pecuniary aid? We trust it shall not. We hope that our hearts and purses shall be freely opened, and our hands will liberally contribute to sustain a faithful Gospel Ministry. We are as much bound by the law of Christ, to pay this debt, as we are by the laws of North Carolina to pay taxes for the support of government. If this be not so the writers of the New Testament have misguided us on this subject.

With a sincere desire to promote the welfare and prosperity of all the churches, which compose this annual conference IN PARTICULAR; and the true cause of original apostolic Christianity, in letter and spirit, in principle and practice, IN GENERAL; the writer begs leave to submit the above suggestion for your consideration—praying the Great Head of the Church to guide us with the call of truth, and add a blessing to our feeble efforts in the greatest and best of causes. May grace, mercy, and peace abide with us all now, henceforth, and forever, for Christ's sake—AMEN.

JOHN P. DUNN.

CIRCULAR LETTER

"And they continued steadfastly in the Apostles' Doctrine and fellowship, and in the breaking of bread, and in prayer"—Acts 2 chap. 42 verse.

To the members of the Churches of Christ composing the Bethel Conference and Union Meeting of the Disciples of Christ, and to all who acknowledge the Holy Scriptures as the only authoritative creed, and book of discipline, grace, mercy and peace from God our Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ, Amen.

Beloved Brethren, I cordially felicitate you that at length, such churches and individuals as are opposed to the adoption of the name, Christian, or disciple, as the proper appellation of the followers of Christ; and who have not sufficient confidence in the Word of God to rely upon it as their only sufficient rule of faith and practice, have withdrawn from our Conference, and left us free to proceed on our career towards Christian perfection, unfettered by an opposition, the result of ignorance and consequent prejudice.

The Christian professor, who believes the New Testament contains sufficient directions for the regulation and proper discharge of his religious and social duties, will necessarily study it in order to know his duty to his Creator, to his fellow creatures, and to himself. The attention of such professors is solicited while we proceed to the consideration of the Christian Church established on the day of Pentecost, in the City of Jerusalem, illuminated by the Holy Spirit, and under the immediate oversight of the divinely inspired Apostles of our Savior, Jesus Christ.

1. They continued STEADFASTLY in the APOSTLES DOCTRINE. We presume it will not be disputed that the New Testament, as it is commonly called, contains the Apostles Doctrine—that doctrine in which primitive Christians continued steadfast—which modern professors too frequently esteem as of only secondary importance. If we wish to imitate the primitive Christians, we should, as individuals, devote a portion of each day to the prayerful reading of the Apostles' Doctrine;—as parents or heads of families, we should, every night, at least call our families, etc. around us to join in reading or hearing the Holy Scriptures;—as members of the Church of Christ, we should meet together every Lord's Day to read and converse on those living oracles;—as preachers we should be most particular to advance nothing for the pulpit except what is perfectly consistent with the written word of God. By so doing we shall exercise and improve our own devotional feelings; we shall bring up our children and domestics in the nurture and admonition of the Lord; and we shall instruct in the best possible manner, such of our brethren, etc. as are incapable of reading for themselves.

2. They continued in the Fellowship. "By the term fellowship, in this place, we suppose the writer to mean the joint weekly contributions which were voluntarily paid into the treasury of the church, for the purpose of providing bread and wine; of ministering to the wants and necessities of the aged or infirm, poor members of the church, or neighborhood; and of sustaining evangelists to preach the Gospel to the world. This duty is too generally neglected by the church in our state. Let us endeavor to reform in this particular; recollecting that it is on this very subject the Apostle Paul says "God loveth a cheerful giver." In passing permit us to suggest that every church should try to contribute as soon as possible, enough to build a suitable house of worship to be open to them on EVERY LORD'S DAY. Then they will have it in their power to attend weekly to their religious duties and privileges, without transgressing on the rights of others.

3. They continued, etc. in the BREAKING OF BREAD, or THE LOAF. For some reason, not readily to be accounted for, the whole of Christendom seems, in a great degree to have lost sight of the importance of a weekly commemoration of the death, etc. of Christ, by breaking and partaking of the emblematic loaf. Yet we are assured that in the days of pure and primitive Christianity this commemorative institution was attended to on every Lord's Day. Any member of the church who failed to partake for three weeks in succession, was liable to expulsion, unless he could render a good reason for his non-attendance. We most earnestly and affectionately call the attention of Christians to the importance of this institution; and to the propriety of thus returning to the practice of Apostolic Christianity. We are happy to say that Calvin, Luther and Wesley are with us on this point.

4. They continued, etc. in PRAYER. Prayer is the appointed means of communication between the Spirit of the Christian and the Spiritual and unseen Creator. It may be divided into (1) Individual prayer; (2) Domestic prayer; (3) Social prayer.

1. Individual prayer is designed to bring us as INDIVIDUALS, into direct communication with God; to confess our personal infirmities, and to cultivate and promote personal holiness. It should be STRICTLY PRIVATE. We are commanded to pray to our Father who seeth IN SECRET. Being intended as the antagonistic force to the constant pressure of things seen and temporal, it must be habitual and frequent. Without it no person can enjoy the fulness and blissfulness of the Christian Religion.

2. Domestic prayer is calculated to impress upon our children and dependents the importance of religion, by associating it with all the recollections of childhood, and all the sympathies of home. It gives to the parental advice the sanctions of religion, and, in after life, recalls the mind to the connection of duty to God, by all the motives drawn from a father's care, and a mother's tenderness. "It is the neglect of domestic prayer, and of reading the Scriptures in our families, which, probably cause so many of the children of professing Christians to be brought up, NOT in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

3. Social Prayer is one of the most important duties and privileges of the Lord's Day. It is that which was intended to be brought to the consideration of the Christian Community, by the resolution offered by our beloved brother Joel Joyner, Jr. at our last Conference. For our encouragement in the performance of this mode of worship, we are told that "if two of you shall agree on Earth as touching anything that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father, which is in Heaven." "For when two or three are gathered together in my name there am I in the midst of them." Mat. 18c 19, 20v. Surely, dear brethren, with a "thus saith the Lord" in our hands, we shall not fail to find two or three, at least, in every Christian Church, who are willing to meet together every Lord's Day, for the purpose of uniting the social prayer and praise. "Let us not neglect assembling ourselves together, as the manner of some is."

In compliance with the request of the last Conference in 1847, the undersigned has prepared the above Circular Address to his brethren. He was aware that the circumscribed limits to which he must necessarily confine himself, would not admit of a full exposition of the duties enjoined. But he was induced to hope, that it might be beneficial to direct the attention of the Christian Community to the faith and practice of the primitive Christians. Our brethren having adopted the name of Christian, and agreed to acknowledge the Holy Scriptures as their only authoritative creed and book of discipline it became the less necessary to argue at great length the propriety of a compliance with duties so plainly inculcated in Holy Writ. That we may all be enabled to go on to Christian perfection is the sincere prayer of Yours in the hope of a blissful immortality.

CIRCULAR

To all who love our Lord Jesus Christ, Grace, Mercy, and Peace be multiplied.

Dear Brethren: The opinion is but too prevalent, that mankind will be justified, at the last day, by having acted in accordance with their own sincere belief, whether that belief be consistant with the word of God, or not. Indeed, the contrary opinion is deemed illiberal.

Let us dispassionately examine into this matter. It is worthy of our serious attention.

1. We find, in temporal affairs, that ignorance of the laws of God does not secure any person who violates them from the consequence of their infraction. The infant delighted with the brilliancy of the flaming candle, eagerly grasps it with his hand. But his ignorance of the laws of nature does not prevent his being burned. A person ignorantly drinks a quantity of poison, not dreaming of harm. Death comes as certainly as if he were acquainted with its deleterious qualities. Some think they may violate with impunity the laws of God against dissipation and drunkenness. Does their opinion, however sincere, alter or annul the Divine law? By no means. Dissipation injures them physically, as much as if they were aware of its evils. May we not presume they will find it even more destructive of their happiness in a future world?

2. As in our temporal and bodily concerns, we KNOW all the commandments and laws of God are for our benefit, may we not reasonably infer that in spiritual and eternal matters His laws are equally necessary to our happiness; and that the violation of them must be prejudicial to our welfare? The Scriptures inculcate the duty of worshiping our Heavenly Father. If we are to worship Him, is it necessary to do so in the way which He has pointed out? Or will some other way which we or our fellow mortals have invented, answer as well, provided we are SINCERE in the performances of it? The examples of Cain and Abel is in point. We have no authority to say Cain was not sincere in his offering. But it was not accepted, because not in accordance with God's laws—not in faith. Our Savior, speaking of the Pharisees, says, "In vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men." And again: "If the blind lead the blind both shall fall into the ditch." If there are any advantages to be derived from worshiping God, and surely they are not few nor trivial, can we continually expect to enjoy them unless we implicitly follow His doctrines? Will any substitute answer, provided we are sincere in its performance?

Here let me remark in passing, that we do not wish to inculcate the idea that we can merit any good thing from our Creator by our acts. For after we have done all we can we are unprofitable servants. The acts of worship enjoined in the Scriptures are the MEANS, not the PURCHASE of our Scriptural enjoyments.

Does not the whole text of the Scriptures teach the necessity of entire and perfect obedience of God our Heavenly Father? How presumptuous, then, the hope that our Divine Legislator will abrogate, in compliance with our opinions, those laws which he has taught us by his Son and by his Spirit entering in and through His apostles? It is the more necessary to give heed to this matter, as we are but pilgrims here on Earth; and if we permit the blind to lead us we "shall fall in to the ditch" at the end of our earthly journey, when no chance of escaping will remain.

3. Is it true that man's belief, though erroneous, if sincere, will save him? As he lives that all mankind will be finally and eternally happy. Will his belief, if untrue save him? Will it not rather tend to make him neglect the means of salvation while here on earth, and then cause him to reject the council of God against himself? Will his belief that a fellow sinner can pardon his sins, purify the soul of anyone? Will he find that pardon ratified in the Court of Heaven? Will the belief of the "fool" who saith "in his heart there is no God" and no future existence, prevent the existence of God; or his own future existence? And so on, ad infinitum.

4. But the greatest objection to this doctrine is yet to come. It makes sincerity the supreme law—one to which all others are subordinate. It stultifies all the laws of faith and conduct, as revealed in the Scriptures. Why then have we Bible, prophets, teachers, lawgivers, etc. Why the evidence of miracles, and the attesting blood of martyrs? If this doctrine be true, sincerity and ignorance will save all. We shall need no other Savior.

Brethren, let us not be deluded by the wiles of Satan. He has contrived this doctrine in order to make mankind live satisfied with themselves, though going contrary to the word of God. Let us diligently and prayerfully examine the Scriptures, and endeavor to act in humble submission to their instructions. They are able to make us "wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good work." 2 Tim 3c 15, 16, 17v. Let us pin our faith to no man's sleeve. As we must be judged at the last day according to OUR OWN work, so we must decide for OURSELVES, in regard to these matters, while time and opportunity permit.

"The night of death cometh, when no man can work."

Yours in Gospel bonds,

Pantego, N. C.,

CIRCULAR

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in Heaven.—Mat. 5c 16v.

Beloved Brethren: At our last annual Conference it was agreed that the humble individual who now addresses you, should be requested to prepare a Circular to be read in the present Conference; and, if approved, attached to the minutes.

Amidst the various subjects to which the attention of the churches of Christ, composing the Bethel Conference, etc. has been called heretofore, I have not been able to think of any one more important to our growth in grace, as a band of Christians, than that which stands at the head of this article—I mean the upright and pious walk of the professors of our holy religion. Those words were spoken by our Savior in that beautiful discourse called the Sermon on the Mount. By acting in accordance with these instructions, the Church of Christ would illuminate the world, and constrain those out of her bounds to acknowledge the truth of her pretensions, and submit to the government of her Lord. For, says Christ, “ye are the light of the World, A City that is set on a hill cannot be hid.” In order to let our light shine in a benighted world we should follow the Apostles’ teaching, as did the early Christians. See Acts 2c 42. “And they continued steadfastly in the Apostles’ doctrine, and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayer.” We presume it will be admitted by all that the New Testament contains the Apostles’ doctrine—that doctrine in which the primitive Christians continued steadfast. If we wish to imitate them we can do so by obeying the Apostles’ instructions.

In the first place, let us hear Paul, who says, “Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another, and so much the more as ye see the day approaching.” Here we see the first Christians were commanded to meet together. But when? For what purpose? The Lord’s Day or first day of the week, was the time of meeting. The breaking of bread, preaching, etc. being the purpose for which they met. See Acts 20c 7v, “And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them,” etc. Then let us come together on the first day of every week, to partake of the emblematic loaf, and other means of grace; for spiritual food is as necessary to the Christians’ Spiritual welfare, as his daily food is necessary to his bodily health. How can we neglect these things and expect a blessing from God?

Again, there is another portion of the Apostles’ teaching to be considered, the fellowship. By the fellowship we mean the weekly contributions by the members of the church, for the support of the poor, etc. See I Cor. 16c 1, 2v, “Now concerning the collections for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye. Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come." Here is a duty enjoined on all Christians, which, I fear, is too much neglected. The duty of supporting the Gospel is also to be attended to. The Lord has commanded that the Gospel shall be preached among all nations. "The Gospel of Christ is the power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call upon him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in him in whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent?" Even so hath the Lord ordained that "they which preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel." Let us attend to what the Lord has ordained, and send the Gospel to poor benighted sinners, that they may be brought into the fold of Christ. Shall the cause, which we love so well, languish and pine away, among us, for want of our aid? We trust it will not. The exigency of the times call aloud on every lover of the truth to step forward and do what he can for the Lord's cause. Let us remember that God will hold us accountable at the last day for the means which he has given us. Let us awake to our duty, and do what the Lord has commanded us.

Another portion of Apostolic practice, etc. is prayer. Among the numerous and diversified evidences, external and internal, of an early and direct communication from God to man, found in the Bible, prayer occupies a broad and lofty place. Man's speaking to God is, to my mind a proof that God first spoke to man. For no human being ever spoke that was not first spoken to. That God first spoke to Adam is as certain as that Adam spoke to Eve; or that their children spoke to each other, and have ever since continued to speak. Our Lord says "Ask, and ye shall receive." Paul tells us to pray without ceasing, and in all things to give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ concerning us. We should pray to God because we stand in need of his continued assistance and blessing.

Our Lord instructed his disciples, saying, "When thou prayest enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly." Communion with God by prayer is as essential to the enjoyment of spiritual life as the air which we breathe is to animal life. The scriptures say, "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth unto all men liberally and upbraideth not." "Let your requests be made known unto God."

We are commanded to bring up our children in the "nurture and admonition of the Lord." How are we to do this but by calling them around the family altar every evening, if not oftener; reading the word of God with them, and praying with and for them; and teaching them what God has done for them, and what He would have them do for themselves and others? O that our sisters would imitate the example of Lois and Eunice, who taught their son Timothy the Scriptures while a child; and thus trained him up in the way of salvation.

It is the indispensable duty of Christians to love one another. Our Savior says, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one for another." "If a man say I love God and hateth his brethren, he is a liar." "Whosoever hateth his brethren is a murderer," etc. "He that loveth his brethren abideth in the light." "Let brotherly love continue." "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers." "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor. We are to do good to all men, especially to them that are of the household of faith." "Let love be without dissimulation." "Be kindly affectioned, one to another."

We aim, beloved Brethren, to stand on original ground; to be guided in our religious course by the Bible. We cannot, therefore, fail to see and feel the importance of doing our duty to promote the cause of Apostolic Christianity, in letter and in spirit—in principle and in practice. "Let us receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save our souls. "But be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord." "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves." And when "the chief shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of Glory that fadeth not away."

The writer begs leave to submit the above for your consideration—praying the Great Head of the Church to guide us, by His unwavering spirit, into all truth; and, at the last day, save our souls in Heaven for Christ's sake.—Amen.

JOHN B. GAYLORD.

Whereas, certain churches belonging to the Bethel Conference and Union Meeting of the Disciples of Christ, taking into consideration the importance of the proclamation of the Gospel, in order to the salvation of men, sent delegates to Hookerton, on the fifth Lord's Day in December, 1850, to hold a co-operation meeting; at which meeting it was agreed to sustain our worthy brethren Jesse P. Nevill, and Josephus Latham as Evangelists, until the session of this Conference: And, whereas, we believe that under the providence of God, much good has been the result of their labors for the conversion of sinners to the Holy Religion of our Redeemer—Therefore,

RESOLVED, That we recommend to the churches composing our Union Meeting, a hearty co-operation in sustaining Evangelists to promulgate the ancient Gospel within our bounds.

Resolved, That a Co-operation meeting be held at Kinston, Lenoir County, N. C., to commence on Saturday before the fifth Lord's Day in November, 1851, for the above-mentioned purpose; and that we invite the churches, or so many of them as may think proper, to represent themselves by delegates at the said time and place, or elsewhere, as may best suit their convenience.

On motion, agreed, that we do heartily recommend our beloved brother, Jesse P. Nevill, to the confidence and esteem of the brotherhood, because of his piety, and the zeal and ability with which he has contended for the "faith once delivered to the saints," during his sojourn with us.

On motion of Elder H. Robinson, agreed, that we recommend to the brethren in general to co-operate in establishing a religious periodical within the bounds of this Conference, believing in the utility and expediency of such a measure; and that it will greatly promote the spread of the Gospel, tend to the edification of the brethren, and promote the glory of God.

On motion, agreed, that we tender our thanks to the inhabitants of Pitt and Greene Counties, in the vicinity of Oak Grove M. H., for their hospitality and kindness to the members of this Conference.

On motion, agreed, that Conference adjourn to time and place above mentioned. Prayer, etc. by Elder Benjamin Parrott.

CIRCULAR LETTER

Beloved Brethren in Christ:

At your last Annual Conference, held at Rountree's Meeting House, Pitt County, it was agreed that I should be requested to prepare a Circular, to be read in this Conference, and, if approved, annexed to the Minutes.

In acceding to this request, it is only from due deference to the wishes of my brethren; being conscious of my inability to discharge that duty, I, therefore, fervently desire to be guided by the spirit of revelation.

Now, in calling your attention to some subjects connected with the Christian Religion, it seems to me that our minds should be directed "to the obedience of Faith."

From the relation in which we stand to God our Heavenly Father, when we view him through the revelation he has given of himself as our Creator, Benefactor, and Preserver, and contemplate his great love in the gift of his son to redeem our fallen race; and what he has done for us; we unhesitatingly acknowledge that we are under the strongest obligations to love and obey him. Thus we see that entire obedience and affections are due to him as God; and from our moral constitution we are made accountable to him for our neglect or disobedience.

But as our moral capacity for virtue falls short of perfect obedience to the law of God, we are brought under grace, the gospel, and taught to believe that by yielding ourselves up in entire resignation to his will, we may hope for salvation, through our Lord Jesus Christ, who is "the end of the law for righteousness, to everyone that believeth." "And being made perfect he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him."

Therefore we see that it is through faith and obedience, that we become the followers and disciples of our gracious Redeemer, and thus prepare to receive the promise and hope of salvation through his righteousness. Then, "let us look unto Jesus, the auther and finisher of our faith"; and by our obedience make our faith manifest. For it is impossible to prove the existence of true faith without works. Through faith we are justified, and by good works we are approved of God. "Seest thou," says the Apostle, when speaking of Abraham, "how faith wrought with his works, and by work was faith made perfect." Those who would obtain the end, must make use of the means necessary to its accomplishment.

Through the means of grace, it is our privilege to attain to the highest intellectual and moral enjoyments, and fulfil the injunction of our blessed Saviour, that we should "let our light so shine before men, that they may see our good works, and glorify our Father who is in Heaven." We should strengthen our faith by meditation, by prayer, and by a devout perusal of the Holy Scriptures. And, in obedience to the instruction that we receive from and through them, we may continue in the faith which works by love, and purifies the heart; and keep the "unity of the spirit in the bonds of peace."

Believing, "you have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered unto you, and been sealed with that holy spirit of promise," I earnestly desire that you may persevere, and continue to "adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things." And would to God, that you may be encouraged to a more perfect obedience to the law of Christ, that you may prove worthy of the cause which you have espoused; the profession you have made; and attain to the greatest enjoyments in our holy religion.

Our Saviour said to his disciples, "He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father; and I will love him, and manifest myself to him." Here we are told what constitutes a disciple of Christ, as well as the true principle and very essence of the Christian Religion. Again he says, "If ye love me, keep my commandments." And, "This is my commandment, that ye love one another as I have loved you." The apostle says, "the end of the commandment is charity." This charity, or love, is indispensable. Although intimately connected with all other Christian graces, without it all other things are nothing. Again, "If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his spirit." Then if we live in the spirit, let us also walk in the spirit, for "the fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law." "Love is the fulfilling of the law." Hence we should not be hearers only, but doers of the word, "proving what is acceptable unto the Lord, for the fruit of the spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth." Let us, therefore, not love in word, but in deed and in truth; for our religion consists not in opinions, but in assurances; not in speculation, but in practice. We should be, "filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ unto the glory and praise of God. Seeing you have purified your souls in obeying the truth, through the spirit, unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that you love one another with a pure heart fervently."

By this, said our Saviour, "shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." And we are told that, by this, the primitive Christians were particularly known among the Gentiles: See, said they, how they love one another, and are ready to lay down their lives for each other. The Apostle James says, "If ye fulfil the royal law according to the Scriptures, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, ye do well."

As you have been directed in the last two circulars, to the doctrines of the apostles in relation to the ordinances of the church, it is deemed unnecessary to call your attention to them, and the limits of a circular will not permit me to notice all the various duties connected with the Christian religion. Therefore, believing our relations and duties to God, our Heavenly Father, to each other and to all men, are so fully developed and expressed in the Word of God, I cannot too earnestly impress upon your minds the importance, and the necessity of your reading and meditating upon it; as it is only through the medium of his word, by the spirit of truth, that we can attain to the knowledge of his will concerning us, and be prepared to love him, and follow him in the exercise of all the commandments, and duties, wherein consists the life of religion. The testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple." The Scriptures are able to make us wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

We are directed to try the spirits, and the doctrines which we hear, and bring them to the standard of truth—the word of God, that they may be rationally and fairly explained. And, like the noble Bereans let us examine and search the Scriptures, whether the things we hear are true. Believing we have, in some good degree, become freed from the shackles and innovations which have been imposed on the Church of Christ, and being established and built upon the word of God—the Holy Scriptures, let us not depart from them.

Our position is an elevated one, and our mission pure; our calling is of God, and the end everlasting life. Therefore, "let us press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus," whose essence is love, and whose delight the eternal happiness of all those who love and obey him. "Finally, brethren whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think of these things." And may the Lord direct your hearts unto the love of God, and unto the patient waiting for Christ. Amen.

WINSOR DIXON.

CIRCULAR LETTER

Beloved Brethren:

You are aware that I was appointed at our last Annual Meeting, to prepare a Circular for the present. With reluctance, and with diffidence, I undertake to perform this duty, by calling your attention to the subject of sending out and sustaining evangelists.

"Come, and let us reason together." In temporal matters, we are all disposed to remunerate those who labor for the public. We pay with liberality our judges, sheriffs, clerks, etc. Sometimes the candidate for a party is sustained by his partisans while he is travelling to advocate their peculiar doctrines. Who thinks of sending away the physician or lawyer without compensation? But the evangelist, while journeying to proclaim the gospel, is generally left unpaid or with a small pittance. The cause for which the Disciples of Christ are pleading, is as far superior in importance to politics, as heaven is higher and better than the earth. And yet some persons pay more in a year to aid their political party, than they ever paid to promote the proclamation of the gospel. How strangely inconsistent is man!

The exposures to which the evangelist is subject are often such as to injure his health, and frequently to shorten his life; yet when he reflects upon the worth of souls, he leaves home, and after laboring many days, and travelling many miles, returns back again, his actual expenses unpaid. This man has, perhaps, a wife, and children at home. In order to support them, it is requisite to devote all his time and talents. But he is urged to attend a protracted meeting at some place, where, after laboring several days, he returns home. Again he is solicited to attend some other meeting, possibly fifty or a hundred miles distant. He consents. How can he refuse? After an absence of weeks, he returns to the bosom of his family, without compensation, weary, and careworn, to find his domestic concerns in disorder and confusion.

Paul says: "If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?—Do ye not know, that they which minister about holy things, live of the things of the temple? And they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar? Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel."

We have churches that have preaching only once in three months—sometimes not so often. Their members are poor, and have not the means of supporting an evangelist. Let us lend them "the helping hand." The Disciples of Christ in North Carolina, number more than two thousand members. Suppose each one should contribute five cents a week—surely there are few who could not do that—while many could do more. But suppose they were to do as Paul says: "On the first day of the week let each one lay by him in store, as the Lord has prospered him." I am confident they could average the above mentioned sum. We could thus raise more than five thousand dollars per annum. Think how many evangelists and teachers might be employed and sustained by such an amount—and, with the blessing of God, how much good might be accomplished. Soon might the gospel be proclaimed in every county of our beloved State, without burden to the proclaimers. When we picture to ourselves such a glorious result, we are encouraged; but when we remember that our brethren scarcely sustain one evangelist, we almost despair. Let me appeal to you, brethren and sisters, to aid us in employing at least three evangelists. If each of our members will pay four cents monthly it will be sufficient for that purpose. Remember, "the night cometh, when no man can work."

May the Lord assist us in the performance of all our duties. Amen.

JOSEPHUS LATHAM.

Kinston, Lenoir County, N. C.

TAR HEEL TOWNS, 1850

Following is a list of all of the 38 "cities and towns," in the North Carolina of 1850, as published in the seventh federal census made that year. The antique spelling of the places is here retained. It is to be observed that in only one of these towns, namely Kingston, (Kinston), were the Disciples represented with an established congregation at that time. There the Disciples had but 81 members—less than four per cent of their entire 2,190 members within the state. Thus it is seen that more than 96% of North Carolina's Disciples were situated in the "Piney Woods" open country in that early day.
